

DANIELLE ANCIN

Curriculum and Content Director,
AllThrive Co-Founder

✉ Danielle@AllThriveEd.org

Danielle has trained hundreds of teachers and youth development leaders in cultural humility, burnout prevention, and trauma-informed education. Co-author of a nationally published Social and Emotional Learning guide for implementing trauma-informed mindfulness practices in the classroom, she has spent the last 8 years working in schools and clinics throughout the Bay Area as a mindfulness instructor, trainer, and sustainability coach.

As an educator, Danielle loves bringing together the arts, social justice education, and holistic and practical approaches to individual and collective healing. She has designed and implemented programs to support healing, stress resilience, and staff sustainability in public and alternative schools in the US and Mexico.

Danielle holds a Master of Public Administration from the Middlebury Institute of International Studies and a certificate in Teaching Trauma Sensitive Yoga. She is grateful to her many “students” throughout the years for teaching her about empathy and resilience and shedding light on her blind spots. She loves speaking other languages, dancing, the forest, and kale.

WENDY MARTINEZ MARROQUIN

Development and Strategy Director,
AllThrive Co-Founder

✉ Wendy@AllThriveEd.org

Wendy is a racial education trainer and visual artist with 5+ years of experience facilitating empathic learning spaces that enable courageous self-inquiry and holistic growth. She has trained hundreds of city employees, educators, and prospective adoptive parents in equity, inclusion, implicit bias, and cross-cultural relationship and trust building.

Having personally experienced the power of embodied mindfulness practices to heal her own racial trauma from her journey as an undocumented immigrant, Wendy has also spent the last 7 years supporting organizations and schools to develop culturally congruent wellness initiatives that promote stress resilience and healing trauma.

Wendy holds a degree in Peace and Conflict Studies from the University of California Berkeley, a certificate in teaching Yoga Therapeutics, and is a trained Restorative Justice practitioner. In her spare time Wendy practices powerlifting and boxing as a means to cultivate strength and personal power, and enjoys cooking traditional Mexican food as a way to connect with her cultural and ancestral roots.

JONATHAN RELUCIO

Trainings and Programs Director,
AllThrive Co-Founder

✉ Jonathan@AllThriveEd.org

Jonathan has spent nearly a decade teaching yoga, meditation, and mindfulness in schools, health clinics, juvenile detention facilities, homeless shelters, and community-based organizations through his work as a Senior Trainer and faculty member for Niroga Institute and the East Bay Meditation Center.

With over 20 years of professional experience in social service delivery, nonviolence training, leadership development, and community organizing, Jonathan values mindfulness yoga as a healing practice of liberation to strengthen communities and social justice movements. In addition to stress resilience and trauma healing, Jonathan believes yoga empowers our communities to unlearn the effects and dismantle the tools of systems of oppression.

He earned his BA from University of California Berkeley studying Ethnic Studies and Psychology, and his MA from Naropa University studying Contemplative Education and Nonviolent Social Movements. In Jonathan's other overlapping lives, he loves dance, dj-ing, martial arts, boxing, prayer, honoring his Filipino cultural roots, travelling, cheering for the Golden State Warriors, playing with his mom, and being in the water.